BEDFORD VAUDEVILLE DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

If Lieutenant Johnstone, R.N., ever went to a crammers before he was sent to a training ship, he was switched off to the wrong place so far as the stage is concerned. Had he never joined the navy he would certainly have made a great theatrical impresario.

On the Oceanic wharf, with less than two days' preparation, Lieutenant Johnstone, with a corps of willing workers from the British cruiser Bedford, last night rigged up a stage, as complete as any in town, painted scenery, ran wires for footlights and then produced a vaudeville show that was really good.

Every one of the numbers was far above the amateur average and some of them were very much better than one sees on the big circuits on the mainland. At the piano was a stoker by the name of Jones, and he was inimitably clever in accompanying the songs and playing preludes.

To pick out any stars would be in-vidious when each of the twenty-four numbers brought out shining lights.
But it would not be amiss to mention Keating, who did imitations of Harry Lauder. He was good—very good.

There were several hundred guests of the officers present and the back of the temporary auditorium was well lined with sailors who joined in the choruses and laughed heartily at every quip that broke away from the stage.

It was a very clever show and more than a credit to the people who performed and arranged it. In its way it was a masterpiece, with stage built, scenery painted, program printed and everything produced in a way that would make the syndicate halls look like the den of spades being dropped in front of an Oxford street bus.

DETECTIVE CHIEF TO LEAVE FOR COAST

Chief of Detectives Leal is planning to take a vacation trip to San Francisco, with the additional idea of going to one of California's Hot Springs for a few weeks. This will be his first trip to the mainland in several years. He first went to the Coast to enlist in the 18th Infantry as a musician at the commencement of the Spanish War. Sheriff Jarrett has given him the required leave of absence.

HONOLULU LIBRARY DOING BIG BUSINESS

A meeting of members of the Honolulu Library association was held yesterday afternoon when reports of various officers were read. It was shown by the librarian's report that more books were loaned out during the past year than during any preceding like period and that all things considered the library is in a most prosperous condition. A large number of new books were added during the year. The library building can not be expanded to meet the expanding business in the exchange of books.

The question of the absorption of the Honolulu library by a Carnegie library proposition was referred to, but it was shown that a letter sent from here had not yet been answered by Mr. Carnegie. It was reported that the Governor intended leaving shortly for the mainland and he would personally take up the matter with the Carnegie representatives.

The thanks of the library people were also expressed to the press for publishing lists of new books acquired by the library.

ELKS HOLD HAPPY SOCIAL SESSION

The Elks' social session last even-caused by the resignation of Judge W.

J. Robinson, who, on account of the illness in his family had been obliged to resign, and the routine business of the lodge had been transacted, the members repaired to the club rooms where an hour or two was passed at progressive games—whist, pedro and dominoes.

Prizes were won by Ralph Johnson, who secured as the first prize a handsome calabash pipe; Frank Barrere, second prize, an Elks' emblem pin, and Lee Swallish, who secured the consolation, an Elks' silver card case.

The lodge has arranged to hold a social session during the fall and winter months at least once a month, and the success of last night's affair assures a large attendance whenever these events are announced.
